

This is Malta...

At the crossroads of the Mediterranean between Europe and North Africa lie the archipelagic Islands of Malta. With a population of 400,000 inhabitants over an area of 316 sq km the three inhabited islands, Malta, Gozo & Comino are small but beautiful in their simplicity & uniqueness.

Malta is home to a proud and colorful legacy with 7,000 years worth of stories to be told. Today magnificent architectural monuments, surrounded by stunning island scenery and the shimmering blue of the Mediterranean sea serve as meeting and entertainment venues in which modern history is written.

What's more, Malta offers an all-year-round mild climate, internationally branded four and five-star hotels, state-of-the art infrastructure, and residents who are for the most part fluent in English and Italian, making communications easy. Conveniently close-at-hand, no more than two to three hours of flight from most European Capitals, served by major airlines and linked to main airports. Getting around is uncomplicated too, given the compact size of the islands, and the fact that they are very safe places to be.

Idyllic surroundings combined with all the latest in technological, conference, and accommodation facilities further allows for Malta to be the first destination of choice in conference travel!
